Weekly Record of all the Happenings in the Valley as Faithfully Recorded by Our Wide-Awake Reporter, "Archie McKiver."

G. Jerbeck of Berkeley was here Sunday visiting friends.

Sam Stahl has returned to Fest's Farm and will assist as bus driver.

Louis and Jack Kearney took in the great race meet in Santa Rosa last Saturday.

Jimmie Taylor, a old-time actor, was in town Sunday on his new three-wheeled bike.

Frank Lahaye was here from the metropolis Sunday shaking hands with his many friends.

Alex. Barton, the popular young section boss on this division of the S. P. Co., spent Sunday in the metropolis.

Willie Johnson and Byron Weaver autoed to Santa Rosa, one day last week, accompanied by two beautiful summer girls.

Thos. Corcoran, a politician from the metropolis, accompanied by an automobile party, passed through here Sunday en route to Boyes Springs.

Roadmaster John Serres and wife, accompanied by their little daughter, autoed to the county seat Saturday and took in the fair and races.

Ten race horse cars passed through here Sunday by special train en route to Sacramento loaded with thoroughbred animals which were on exhibition at the recent fair in Santa Rosa.

Leo Fitzpatrick, a traveling man for Button & Co's hardware store of San Francisco, accompanied by Mrs. G. Stafford of the same firm, spent Admission Day at Boyes Hot Springs.

The letter written by our old and able friend Chas. Spindler and published in last week's Index-Tribune, in regard to Guy Bigelow and his attempt to recall Supervisor Weise, was read with interest here.

Go to the polls next Tuesday, September 16th, study your ballot closely and vote for the present Supervisor, Harry Weise, and be in with the winning side on election night. Bewith those who will say "I told you so." Nothing like it, voters.

Harry Fine, head clerk of Charley Miller's Villa, while repairing a fence along the banks of Sonoma creek last Friday, slipped and fell to the bottom of the creek, breaking an arm. The injured man was taken to Leix's sanitarium, where the broken bone was set.

The Sonoma Valley Expositor in a recent issue prints on its front page that four of our leading summer resorts were given licenses without having the requisite thirty-five rooms. This is a base lie. The proper officials visited these places before the licenses were granted and pronounced them as being entitled to the same. This is the paper that is supporting Elmer Kilgore for supervisor.

Bigelow in his Expositor of last Saturday says that H. H. Granice and others are to be brought before the courts on account of the agitator being showed up in his true colors when he advised N. Remazzano of this place to sell liquor without having a license to do so. We would advise you, Mr. Bigelow, if you are a wise politician, to do this before election. If you win it will be a boost for your candidate.

As this is the last issue of the Index-Tribune before the recall election next Tuesday we wish to congratulate editor Harry Granice, the writer of the able editorials that have appeared in his paper from time to time, and also the editors of the Press Democrat and Republican of Santa Rosa for their brilliant articles against the recall of Supervisor Weise. The efforts of this group of papers will bring results at Tuesday's election.

Reporter Archie McKiver of the Index-Tribune and several other staunch Weise supporters autoed through the different voting precincts in this supervisorial district last Sunday to interview the voters and found almost everybody in favor of Supervisor Weise for re-election. It was the same cry all along the line. "No grounds for a recall," and it is a sure thing that Harry Weise is going to retain his office by a majority long to be remembered in this supervisorial district.

Carl Weaver spent last week viewing the fair at Santa Rosa.

A. Bolin, wife and son took in the fair at Santa Rosa last Friday.

Pete Hansen and wife were visitors to the county seat last Friday.

Mrs. Sarah Baines, Miss Hazel Baines and Miss B. Travis autoed to Santa Rosa and other points of interest one day last week. Harry Baines, the well-known chauffeur, was the man at the wheel.

This town was thrown into wild excitement last Saturday night by ear-splitting war-whoops and piercing yells, which aroused the entire populace from sound slumber. At first it was thought that Bigelow's prohibition candidate for supervisor had been elected, but that couldn't be so. Save your noises, boys, for the night of September 16th, and we'll all whoop 'em up for Harry Weise, who is a sure winner by a big majority. El Verano precinct is going to send him over the line a live to oneshot. Guy, just watch and see if your staunch admirer, Archibald McKiver, hasn't got the dope sheet right, and after election you and I will be friends again. Seat!

ATTEMPTED RECALL OF SUPERVISOR WEISE.

Mr. Editor:

I would like to ask for a little space in your paper, as I desire to call the attention of the voters in our First Supervisorial district to a few facts relating to the recall of Supervisor Harry Weise.

The new law of recall, passed recently by our State Legislature, is very good. It offers protection for the people against corrupt officials, but though good in substance and purpose it must be used with discretion. Intended for the people's good it must not be turned for personal gain. It is of such subtle nature that it should be resorted to only after thorough investigation and with unprejudiced action.

Let me ask: Did the citizens who signed the petition for the recall election give this matter sufficient thought before signing it? Did they justify themselves in doing so? Did they realize just what it means to write their names down to a petition as vague, general and indefinite as this one in question? The accusations are not specific: "The rescinding of the resolution by the Board of Supervisors, limiting the number of licenses in a portion of said district to eleven," was the real reason for the recall.

In the first place this resolution was passed under the strenuous pressure of Mr. Bigelow and company. Following this a petition with 450 signatures of citizens of the district (not saloon men) asking the Supervisors to rescind the resolution, led them, after much deliberation, to do so.

This action was done in accordance with the direct will of the people, as in the last two elections this district went "wet."

Mr. Bigelow, through his newspapers and by personal effort, prompted the recall. Was he moved by ambition to become the political boss of the First Supervisorial district? Or was it a far-sighted real estate proposition?

In conclusion, I would like to emphasize that the significance of this election lies in the fact whether this district is to be ruled by the people or by one man—by the citizens or by a would-be boss.

Supervisor Weise Issues Statement.

To the Voters of the First Supervisorial District.

On account of the many false reports and misleading statements which are being circulated in reference to the recall election in this district, I desire to give a plain statement of the actual facts of the matter.

In the argument of the recallers, printed on the sample ballot, it is stated that I have not kept my pledge to uphold the anti-road house ordinance. The anti-road house ordinance had not been voted upon at the time I was a candidate and it is therefore apparent that I did not make a promise to uphold a law that was not in existence.

As a mere matter of law, as Supervisor it was impossible for me to violate the anti-road house ordinance. If any one will spend five minutes in reading the initiative ordinance they will see that it in no way relates to the duty of the Board of Supervisors. It places no restraint upon the power of the Board to issue licenses, nor does it give the Board power to enforce its provisions. It provides that it shall be unlawful for anyone to sell liquor without having a thirty-five room hotel. It may be conceded that the ordinance was defective in not having such provisions. But it is very plain that so far as the ordinance is concerned the Board of Supervisors were not given any authority and it imposed no duty upon them; that, as a matter of law, the Board could not violate it.

Nevertheless, the Board of Supervisors and myself have not taken that attitude about the matter. We took it for granted that the people, by adopting such ordinance, intended that the saloon business should be confined to hotels having thirty-five sleeping rooms. We believe it our duty to justly carry out the will of the people so far as the people had expressed their will about the matter.

In the argument in favor of the initiative ordinance on the sample ballot for the election at which it was adopted, it was stated by its proponents, that the adoption of the ordinance "will not close the saloons in incorporated cities or towns; the wineries, summer resorts, or the legitimate hotels complying with the requirements of the ordinance."

There are two ways of enforcing saloon regulations. One way is for any three citizens, or one peace officer to make a complaint to the Board of Supervisors that the law is being violated and upon such complaint being made the Board has power to revoke the license of the person so violating the law. The other method of enforcing the saloon law is for any citizen to file a complaint in a Justice Court, charging a violation of the law upon which it is the duty of the officers to prosecute the case. The roadhouse law did not provide any such method for its enforcement. It provided no penalty for its violation and therefore no one could swear to a complaint in a Justice Court and thus start a prosecution.

In order to supply this deficiency in the roadhouse law, we passed an ordinance providing a penalty for its violation. We wanted to do the best we could with a troublesome situation. We wanted to so arrange it that any person in Sonoma county who believed that the saloon law was being violated could have it in his own hands to enforce the law. So at the first meeting of the Board after I became a member, I voted for the ordinance providing that penalty.

Under the language of the ordinance the Board of Supervisors were not prohibited from issuing a license to any one they saw fit, nevertheless I voted for a resolution which was adopted by the Board, by which we agreed not to issue licenses to any who did not have a bona fide hotel having thirty-five rooms, as required by the ordinance. No license has been granted until proof has been presented to the Board of Supervisors that the applicant has the rooms required by the initiative ordinance. Neither have we been granting any licenses without first postponing action thereon for thirty days, and giving notice in a newspaper of the time when the application would be heard. In this way all persons having objections to the issuance of any license were requested to come before the Board and make their objections. It is now claimed that the Board has granted licenses to places which are not entitled to the same under the initiative law. The Board or myself have not intentionally done so. If such a charge be true, it would have been more appropriately made before the Supervisors at the time appointed by them for hearing such complaints. Or if any one dissatisfied did not want to make the complaint there, he can at any time go into any Justice Court in the county and file a complaint against the person claimed to be violating the law by running contrary to the provisions of the initiative ordinance. Any citizen has that right, not on account of the initiative ordinance itself, but on account of that right having been provided by the Board of Supervisors and myself. Any one can see, who wants to be fair about the matter, that instead of trying to defeat or pervert the anti-road house law, as a matter of fact, it is due to the Board of Supervisors, including myself, that the provisions are enforceable.

The people who prepared an ordinance so carelessly drawn as to provide no method of enforcing it, are in a poor position to find fault with the action of the Board of Supervisors or myself about the matter. If Mr. Bigelow or his satellites really desire to see the law honestly enforced and could act free from personal considerations and personal animosities, they would appreciate the support the Board has given to the ordinance and would aid in seeing that it is enforced. Instead of so acting, Mr. Bigelow, nor any one directly connected with him, has ever made any complaint to the Board of Supervisors, praying for the revocation of any license nor filed any complaint in a Justice Court for any violation of that law. If they have real facts of the violation of that law, instead of using such facts for prosecuting the violator, they seize upon such facts as a method of abusing and misrepresenting the acts and purposes of public officials.

Mr. Bigelow absolutely cannot point to a single instance since I have been Supervisor in which he has done the slightest thing of a practical character to aid in the enforcement of the liquor laws. He has filed no complaint with a Justice of the Peace and made no complaint to the Board of Supervisors. If he knew of such violations of the law it was his duty as a good citizen, to help enforce the law.

In fact, Mr. Bigelow does not appear to be animated by such motives. When I went into the Supervisor's office, I had a hope that I might be able to secure the approval of Mr. Bigelow, as well as the people generally, in my district. I have learned that myself or any other self-respecting man could not fill that position from his district to the satisfaction of Mr. Bigelow. The price of his good will is servile subjection to his wishes, to his vanity, to his animosity. He wants the Supervisor from his district as his political tool, to stand in with his friends and punish his enemies. That is a part that I do not intend to play.

Complaint is also made by Mr. Bigelow that I voted for rescinding a resolution of the Board of Supervisors limiting the number of licenses in a portion of my district to eleven. It is true that I did. The Board, including myself, adopted that resolution with due consideration. It arbitrarily prevented a hearing to persons entitled to a license as much as others who had already been granted one. A petition containing the names of about four hundred people in that community was presented to the Board asking that the resolution be rescinded. The Board gave a month's notice of the hearing of the petition to rescind the resolution by publication in two newspapers and the Board being satisfied that the resolution should not have been adopted at the beginning, did what was right by rescinding it and thereby placing those under the same conditions, on an equal basis. The people of Sonoma Valley gave a majority of fifty against the initiative ordinance and the people of my district voted against it by a majority of seventy-four. The county adopted the ordinance and therefore the Board thought it nothing but right to stand by the ordinance. But in limiting the number to eleven in Sonoma Valley we had gone a good deal farther than the initiative ordinance provided and contrary to the wishes of the people in that valley. So I believe I did the right thing to vote for rescinding the resolution.

As indicating the motive of Mr. Bigelow, it should be recalled that a few years ago he was a candidate for Supervisor in this district and made a strenuous attempt to secure saloon support upon his promise to stand with them. In a communication which can be produced at any time, he stated "there are sixty one saloons in this valley now, I am satisfied with the number of saloons in this valley, but do not want any more road-houses on the county road that is all." There are twenty less saloons now than when Mr. Bigelow so wrote. I dare say that if he thought it would best serve his personal interests he would today betray his present cause and enter into a combination with saloon men. He thought the saloon men were all right if he could get them to serve his purposes. Failing to do so he attempts to port. make an issue out of the saloon question to serve his own vain-glorious ends.

Mr. Bigelow is a spoiled child with money. He claims the right to run or ruin men in public positions who do not bow down to his wishes. I was selected to be a Supervisor for the people. Mr. Bigelow understands that I was selected to be a Supervisor for him. If the people think that I should serve him rather than them, they should support my recall. I would not care for the job of Supervisor if it do so meant being the self-serving tool of J. K. Bigelow.

I am a poor man. I own no newspapers with which to misrepresent other men and ruin the reputation of those I am so inclined. I do not believe that the people of my district are indifferent to the unscrupulous vilification and attempts to ruin every man who does not suit a spoiled child with money. I want to perform my duty to the people of the district as best I can and for that purpose I invite their assistance and co-operation and if at any time I am not doing what is right, or what you may think is right, I want to be put right.

The fight against me is waged by personal animosity and backed by money. In a contest of money I cannot compete, but I appeal to all the men and women in my district who believe in a fair deal to a public official, as well as to any one else to go to the polls on the 16th of September, and vote for fairness and justice by voting "No" against my recall. Money will be lavishly used to get out a vote against me, and I must rely upon those whose sense of right and good citizenship impel them to my support. I want to be put right.

Congregational Church, September 14th, 1913

Science is doing very much to uncover the glory of creation, the glory of history and the glory of God. Science is the handmaid of God as far as they exalt Him. Religion never was as well equipped and the bible was never so well understood. We are very glad that progress takes away men's excuse for neglecting the purpose for which they were created and making their neglect of God their own sweet will. We do not enjoy being made the cause of a man's own inherent cussedness. A man will by virtue of his nature love God as far as he knows Him. If you do know God it is an axiom that you do not know Him. Don't make an image of Him out of your experience and judgment. Sunday morning we will tell you what God tells us about Himself. The morning worship begins at 11 a. m. The Sunday evening worship will begin at 7:30. There will be a service of song led by a competent choir, after which we will briefly set forth the best way to escape the Judgment. No matter how good you are—and men are filled with self-conceit and are always ready to show you how much better they are than their neighbors—and you know you will not hold water and you do not banker after a fair test. Come and we will show you a better way.

LIQUOR ORDINANCE

Makes Some Important Changes in the Retail of Spirituous and Malt Liquors.

The amended county liquor ordinance passed by the Board of Supervisors last Saturday afternoon makes a number of important changes.

One change specifies the kind of rooms that come into the reckoning in the "thirty-five separate sleeping apartments" a bona fide hotel, such as is contemplated by the initiative anti-roadhouse ordinance. The new ordinance provides that said rooms must be built of wood or permanent material and must contain 500 cubic feet of air space and eight feet of window space. The use of tents, as is already known, is forbidden under the recent decision of Judge Seawell from being included in the thirty-five rooms necessary.

When the new ordinance becomes effective no dance hall or platform can be located within fifty feet of a bar in a bona fide hotel, the only places that can get a retail liquor license under the initiative ordinance.

Under the new ordinance no manufacturer of vinous or malt or other intoxicating liquors, or their agents, can sell less quantities than thirty gallons; and not less than one gallon when sold to any person who is the holder of a retail license, or to any person who has not been a bona fide householder for less than six months in the locality in which the hotel is located. This will do away with the selling of beer or wine to transients, about which there has been considerable complaint, particularly in five-bottle draughts.

There is also a change in the form of application for a license. Future applications must be signed by eight of the nearest bona fide resident householders who have been such for six months prior thereto.

Long Time Between Drinks.

Under the new election law the polls at next Tuesday's election will be kept open from 6 a. m. till 7 p. m., instead of between 6 and 6, as formerly under the old law. This reminds us that it will be a long time between drinks on that day as every saloon in the district must remain closed while the polls remain open.

El Verano Development Association

The El Verano Development Association will soon enter into the second year of existence with a list of over one hundred good standing members. A town lot bought and paid for to build a fittingly equipped hall on said lot and a little sum of cash on hand on the one side and achievements like "The Black Point Cut-off," an enterprise started by this association, and numerous minor improvements, are showing that the association has the good fortune and can be proud of its active spirited members.

One of the speakers at a recent meeting expressed himself: "To become permanent and beneficial to its members and the community at large, distinctive and active spirited members possessed of a zeal to promote the welfare, comfort and prosperity of all members are the pillars of the association's success. If the association had had nothing more substantial back of it than pride it would soon become rusty and useless, but taking active part in the proceedings to each one's best ability is bound to promote and further the aim of the association so that outsiders will duly recognize it. No need of taking on metropolitan airs, for the air of well founded enterprise is enough; but for ultimate success, that active spirit which is benevolent, essential and indispensable, must possess all members. Civic indifference and neglect of community will not help the association."

A series of debates is now planned, beginning with "Road Improvements." Meanwhile the association is rolling up a larger membership weekly, and it is to be hoped that before the end of the second year the association will have passed the 200 mark. Much can be done by persistence and it is to be hoped that indifference, which prevailed too long towards general improvements in our "sleepy hollow" (Sonoma Valley) will gradually disappear and a new era of prosperity become visible.
